

no bits are added: every router input is already in the decoder

